

Second Class Plan for week of May 4th

The following is a suggestive work plan for the coming week.

Please email me samples work at mpettersen2nd@gmail.com, by taking photos of their work and sending them as attachments. Thank you.

I have included work for Monday. While I recognise that it is a bank holiday, therefore it is not at all mandatory that the children do the work. I felt that some parents want to keep their children to a schedule so we have included the work. It's up to you as a parent to decide if you want your child to do the work or not. I have allowed for the children to catch up during the week, if they did not do the work on Monday.

If there is anything else you need, please let me know.

Thanks a million

Area is the measurement of a surface, from the surface area of your table, your maths book, the kitchen and land. In our class we are looking at measuring small items. Look at your chair, how many maths books would cover the seat? how many do you think will cover the table? The bigger the surface area, the more books you will need if all the books are the same size.

Think about these with your parent...

Does a desk have a greater surface area than a chair?

Does your hand have a smaller surface area than your thumb?

Does your maths book have a greater surface area to your maths copy?

Does your rubber have a greater surface area than a maths book?

A maths book has a smaller surface area than a school bag?

SESE:

Did you plant your peas/vegetables? Keep a note of what date you planted them....

Keep an eye on them every day to see if they need water or have popped up out of the compost.

I planted my peas the same day I gave you your books. That was 9 days ago. I noticed that the compost has shrunk down. The soil still feels wet, but I'll give them a small drop of water. Nothing has appeared yet tough.
